

Taryn Eubank, PharmD, BCIDP
Infectious Diseases Pharmacy Clinical Specialist
*An Epidemiologic Exploration of Vancomycin Resistance in *Clostridioides difficile

ryn completed her Doctorate in Pharmacy at Harding University in Searcy, Arkansas. She then went on to complete PGY1 and PGY2 in Infectious Diseases residencies at Houston Methodist Hospital in the Texas Medical Center. She is currently completing a postdoctoral fellowship in a T32 Training Program in Antimicrobial Resistance funded by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID). Her areas of interest include 1) antimicrobial resistance and genetic mechanisms, 2) gastrointestinal microbiome, and 3) translational research.